PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Versatile clinical officer, content writer, and data annotator with experience in both medical and non-medical fields, complemented by a strong background in content writing. Proven ability to conduct thorough patient assessments and manage clinical cases while ensuring high standards of care. As a data annotator, I am skilled in accurately labeling and organizing data across various domains to support AI and machine learning projects. Additionally, as a content writer for Scooper News Company, I produced well-researched articles that optimized content visibility and engaged audiences, utilizing SEO best practices. Eager to leverage my diverse skill set in clinical practice, data management, and content creation to contribute to innovative solutions across multiple sectors. Known for accuracy, organization, and analytical problem-solving. Seeking remote opportunities in AI data annotation, model evaluation, and evidence-based medical writing.
