RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Independent Research Project: Forensic Facial Reconstruction

Northern State University – Aberdeen, SD

01/2014 – 05/2015

- I conducted in-depth research on the relationship between facial muscle and tissue thickness across populations using statistical analysis. I applied findings and anatomical knowledge to reconstruct faces using skulls and clay modeling.
- I managed all aspects of the project, including literature review, experimental design, data collection, and analysis.
- I presented the 3D model and research findings in front of an honors panel and amongst peers in multiple classrooms.
